WALTON READY FOR ATTACK

Lower House Will Consider Impeachment Of Own Members Early In Session

Oklahoma City—Preparations for the test of strength between members of the state legislature and Governor Walton that will follow the convening of a special session of the legislature Thursday moved forward Monday with a calmness that was in marked contrast to the stormy days through which the state has passed.

The session, summoned Saturday night by the governor two days after a call had been issued by a majority of the members of the house for an impeachment session on Oct. 17, opened the way for the impeachment fight.

The fight will be wholly parliamentary. Guns and bayonets that figured so prominently in the dispersal on Sep. 25, of an attempted session of the house will not reappear. Governor Walton who guided the actions of the national guard in sending legislators from the state capitol has announced that he is ready to face the attack and that he welcomes the opportunity to defend his official conduct.

MEMBERS MEET DAILY
Representative McBeck, leader of the legislative group opposing the emergency, announced that from 20 to 30 members of the house who were dispersed have met daily and that a record of their sessions has been kept. He said that on the date specified by the governor in his call, the house would meet in the dispersal building. The sessions since Sep. 25, he explained, have been executive.

Although the call specified that the legislature was to consider an anti-klux klan legislation, it is generally expected that the emergency session will come first. It is not certain, however, that the governor's case will head the list. House members have indicated that certain of their numbers will receive initial attention. It is also expected that several departments of the state government will be investigated.

The state Monday continued nominally under martial law, but with the exception of a few attaches of military courts in Shawnee and Sulphur, not a member of the national guard was on duty.

NEGRO HELD FOR SLAYING OF GIRL

Pittsburg—Lorenzo Savage, a Negro, was held for the slaying of a white girl, Miss Elsie Barthel, a nurse, whose body was found in the driveway under the porch of an abandoned mansion Sunday. Savage, according to police, confessed that he killed the woman.

The Negro was arrested after Miss Barthel's mother had informed the authorities that her daughter made an engagement to meet Savage to have her fortune told. Miss Barthel and the Negro had been employed by Dr. R. S. Marshall, the former as secretary and aide, and the latter as a butler.

MILWAUKEE FLIERS HAVE CLOSE SHAVE

Milwaukee—Adolph Carlitz, local aviator, and Benny Crew, veteran parachute jumper, escaped death Sunday when they were compelled to make a forced landing in the darkness of night in a rough field 15 miles west of here.

For two hours the plane circled over the city trying to find a resting place. In total darkness, the plane swept close to the ground, broke through the tops of a grove of trees and sped over the rough field. It stopped on the edge of a large hole which, according to the pilot, would have completely wrecked the machine had the wheels gone in.

THREE BANDITS GET $5,000 IN RITZ-CARLTON

Charlie Chaplin Is First Man To Enter After Robbers
Steal Jewels

New York—Three armed men early Monday night used the night manager and several other employees of the fashionable Ritz-Carlton hotel and robbed a jewelry store off the lobby of $5,000 worth of gems.

The robbery occurred at 2:30 A. M. Charlie Chaplin, who entered the hotel lobby 15 minutes after the bandits fled, was the first outsider to learn of it. Not until five hours later, after hotel employees had tried to trail the robbers and failed, was the holdup reported to the police.

SMASHES SHOWCASE
Entering the hotel at the main entrance, the bandits, well dressed and armed, called for the night manager and ordered his hands up. A porter, bellman and elevator man were herded into an elevator cage and kept prisoners there by two invaders. While the third smashed the show case in the adjoining shop and scooped out the jewels.

When the bandits fled, leaving $45,000 worth of jewels in the smashed case, the bandits trio drove up to the entrance in a large automobile and entered the Ritz-Carlton, changing unobtrusively. They had all the appearance of bonafide guests.

When Chaplin strode in, the imprisoned employees had just been released by the hotel's special officer. Chaplin joined the officer and the night manager in following a trail of spilled jewels to the hotel door. They learned that the doorman, believing the bandits to be guests started off on an early morning adventure helped them through the revolving doors and into their automobile.

ADVENTIST STATES CRIME IS GROWING

Milwaukee—Violence, revelry and drunkenness are converting the churches of the world into the temples of crime, according to a statement made in the opening address of the world conference of Seventh Day Adventists by Prof. C. W. Irwin, secretary of the educational department, here Monday.

A great campaign must be inaugurated to reestablish confidence among the students attending the Seventh Day Adventist colleges and academies, as well as in the certainty of the coming of Christ, Prof. Irwin said.

The schools themselves are not to be held entirely responsible for the scarcity of young men in the ministry, the speaker said. Where the denomination now has 2,267 ministers, it should have 3,700 in proportion to the membership, he maintained.

A deck of cards, the authorities said, led to the arrest of Savage. When Miss Barthel's body was discovered, the police found two envelopes, one clutched in her hand and the other under her head. One contained an ace, deuce and trey of diamonds and a five of spades, the other, said to have contained $300, was empty. At the Negro home, the police said, they found a deck of cards from which the ace, deuce and trey of diamonds and the five of spades were missing.

Bandit's Pals Stage Daring Jail Delivery

By Associated Press
Jail, Okla.—Five unmasked men held up the county jail Sunday night and released Ed Lockhart, notorious bandit, after they locked Jack Carey, ailer and Perry Arthur a Jay merchant, visiting at the jail, in a cell.

The bandits fled in an automobile. The actual holdup was committed by a youth not more than 18 years old, while the other men stationed themselves about the jail.

WHEAT COMMITTEE MEETS IN CHICAGO

Agents Sent By Coolidge To Consider Plight Of Northwestern Farmers

Chicago—Eugene Meyer, director of the war finance corporation was here Monday for conference with wheat growers of the central northwest by direction of President Coolidge.

His first engagement was with Judge Robert Bingham of Louisville, Ky., former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Aaron Sapiro, cooperative counsel of the American Farm Bureau federation and nearly a score of others. Some of the conferees said the meeting had been called prior to the president's action but that Mr. Meyer had been invited to attend.

Mr. Meyer, managing director of the war finance corporation, Director Frank Mondell of the corporation and M. G. Tope of the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture formed the Washington contingent to hold the conference in the central northwest by order of President Coolidge to discuss with wheat growers the matter of forming cooperative marketing associations through aid made available by the government.

Grand Junction, Colo.—An explosion in the Midwest coal mine, two miles from Palisade, Colo., Sunday killed six of the seven miners in the mine. A government mine rescue crew that had been fighting fire in the Book Cliff mine near Palisade arrived at the mine within an hour. Helicopters recovered all of the bodies except those of Robert P. Scott and W. B. Keyes. They had been located, but gas was so bad that three of the rescue crews were overcome and had to be helped from the works. The usual force at the mine is forty men, but only a cleanup crew was in Sunday and Manager Scott was on an inspection trip.

NEW EVIDENCE IN WEBB DEATH CASE

Grand Jury Reopens Investigation
Of Poison Charges
At Rye, N. Y.

White Plains, N. Y.—The grand jury investigation into the death of Mrs. Gertrude Gorman Webb, a wealthy society woman, who died at the Westchester-Biltmore country club at Rye, N. Y., 13 days ago, will be renewed Monday with the promised introduction of evidence that a "certain person" dissolved poisonous tablets and gave the solution to Mrs. Webb for something prior to her death.

Dr. Alexander O. Goettler, toxicologist of Bellevue who examined part of the body will read the reports of his findings, which show that some poison was in the body, although not enough to cause death without contributory causes.

Westchester co. authorities stated they did not expect the grand jury to return a murder indictment, but said they looked for a sudden new turn to the case with an indictment alleging one or more lesser crimes.

BOTH OPPOSE INTERFERENCE

Former Ambassadors Favor
Adoption Of Intense Nationalist Attitude

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1923 by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Two powerful voices will be added to the "irreconcilable" group in American politics when Ambassadors George Harvey and Richard Washburn Child return home. Both men after a period of first hand acquaintance with European problems and the world diplomacy of von London to the near east are coming back to America more confirmed in their views that the United States should stay out of Europe than they were before they left.

Word to this effect has reached friends of the two ambassadors on this side of the Atlantic. Mr. Harvey originally was one of the most bitter critics of the league of nations and his first speech in London was an announcement that the Harding administration would have nothing to do with the league or any of its creations, either directly or indirectly. Mr. Harvey was compelled to modify his views somewhat when President Harding came out for the permanent court of international justice which was created by the league, and while he did not like the idea, he did not break with Mr. Harding, but gave out a diplomatically worded statement to the effect that he saw nothing inconsistent in the president's position.

BOTH URGE ISOLATION
Both Mr. Harvey and Mr. Child assisted Warren Harding in the preparation of his 1920 speeches at Marion and they both urged him to steer away from European questions as much as possible. Ambassador Harvey always has been a member of the group of American literary men who cherished a traditional fondness for Great Britain, and the belief prevails now that he comes back just as friendly to Great Britain, but exactly won over to the idea of any special arrangement for a world league. There was a time when he advocated a new type of association of nations with the principle embodied in it of investigation of disputes under the aegis of the league of nations, but before hostilities are begun, but the shifting currents in American politics make it seem likely that Mr. Harvey will not line up with those who have a formula for cooperation between Europe and America based on a policy of continued nationalism.

FAYORS FASCISM
As for Mr. Child, he has become a disciple of the theory of intense nationalism which is the basis of the movement. He thinks the Fascist movement is an excellent example of the reawakening of the virile spirit in nations and that democracies can achieve their greatest objectives by following the doctrine of Mussolini's Italy. Premier Poincare in France is following the nationalistic theory of getting all possible advantage for France, irrespective of the effect on Germany or the rest of the world, and there are Britons who feel their government should withdraw from the continent and take care of the home problems that are pressing for attention. The opposing school insists that continental economic conditions must be corrected before domestic affairs can be improved.

And so runs the conflict between the policy of isolation or national aloofness and formulas of cooperation and international conference. Messrs. Child and Harvey are leaders in the nationalist school and they have on their side in the American embassies in Europe, Ambassador Alexander P. Moore of Spain, one of Hiram Johnson's original boosters. On the other side are Ambassador Allen B. Hughes, American ambassador to Cuba, and that American should assume a position of alert interest in European affairs. It will be interesting to see what types will succeed Messrs. Harvey and Child.

Prison Life Resumes Normal

Are Slain

By Associated Press
Eddyville, Ky.—Prison life was practically normal again Monday following the burial in the penitentiary cemetery of Monte Walters and Harold Feland, convicts, who met death in a barricaded dining hall, after fatally wounding three guards in an attempt to escape.

Two pine boxes containing their bodies were hauled one at a time on a prison wagon to Vinegar Hill and buried during the three and a half days' siege which it is now certain only dead men were holding, officials said this was probably due to official coats and aprons of prison attendants which hung on the walls of their covers.

Before the convicts died they had scrawled death messages. One from Griffith read: "Defiance (defiance) from the dead." One from Walters to his wife said: "Love to you."

RADICALS URGE 'ONE BIG UNION'

American Federation Considers Proposals For Labor Party

Portland, Ore.—Material for forecasts in the convention of the American Federation of Labor was in the hands of the resolutions committee whose report was the order of business when the convention resumed Monday.

The radical element has been rallying its strength around the slogan of "one big union" and the participation of the American Federation of Labor in a Labor party which forms the resolution before the committee.

Centralization on the "one big union idea" is another issue involved in the committee's report. Recognition of Soviet Russia is called for in another resolution which the committee is to report.

Two resolutions denouncing the Fascist movement, resolutions declaring against injunctions and for the election of federal judges and for pardons for Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, prisoners in California, are among important ones to be acted on.

Other measures which have been considered by the committee were old age pensions, action for relief of workers in the Canal zone from the effect of recent government orders, the drug traffic, action by ship owners to the detriment of American seamen and declarations in favor of a board of adjustment in navy yards for enforcement of the civil service merit system, for navy yards on government contract and for extension of the eight hour law.

REVENGES HER HUSBAND

Murderess Asserts Dead Man
Cheated Church Out Of Large Sum Of Money

By Associated Press
Chicago—Mrs. Emma Strutyński, kneeling in the sacred of the little church of St. Nicholas the Archangel, of the Ukrainian branch of the Greek orthodox church here, head bowed as if in prayer, shot and killed the Rev. Basil Stetsuk as he knelt before her to receive a Sunday confession that she said she wanted to make because she was very ill.

Her scream "cheat," the explosion and a tiny spurt of flame of a pistol struck terror to the hearts of the parishioners bowed reverently in the pews. The first bullet struck the priest in the mouth just as he knelt and said:

"My daughter, what is it?" Two women seized Mrs. Strutyński, as she fired four more shots at the priest, two into the back and two which merely passed through his gown. She was wasting the money of the parish. Father Stetsuk cheated my people. He was a cheat and hypocrite. I had to kill him."

Police said they believe Mrs. Strutyński is mentally deranged. She said she set out five weeks ago to kill the priest. She said she stayed at Pittsburg and sent her daughter to Hungary to be with my husband—when he should hear of this."

Despite reiterated statements that she was responsible, the police are searching for the man who had been heard to say, "something is going to happen in this church."

Father Stetsuk was 44. He was secretary to Bishop Soter Ortynsky of Philadelphia, head of the Ukrainian church in America, when summoned to Chicago. He leaves a widow and two children.

Father Stetsuk was pastor of St. Nicholas Ukrainian church but because St. Nicholas was too poor to afford his own priest, he held mass there each Sunday.

On investigating to ascertain whether anyone else was implicated in the slaying of the Rev. Stetsuk, the police found that the dead priest had shot a boy who was playing in front of his home a week ago.

SHOT BOY IN LEG
Peter Lortupkin 12, was playing ball in the street when the ball was tossed into the priest's yard. The boy went after it and while there dropped to the ground with a bullet in his leg. The Rev. Stetsuk stated that he was shooting sparrows and did not know the boy was there. A warrant charging the priest with assault with intent to kill was sworn out but was never served as he stated that he was a priest and was not a voluntary and give bond.

Mrs. Strutyński Monday declared she was not sorry and was willing to hang. The authorities believe her seemingly rambling statements indicate an unbalanced mind. Her husband, the Rev. Strutyński, according to telegrams received is hurrying here to aid her.

Her husband is under indictment with Nicholas Morelo charged with embezzling $12,000 from the DuSapno Building and Loan association, of which the priest formerly was secretary, and these charges and the charge that the Rev. Strutyński had been removed from St. Nicholas parish here after a $50,000 church for which his wife said he had personally collected $100,000 in subscriptions, apparently weighed on her mind although she asserted "my husband's wrongs had nothing to do with it. The wrongs to the Ukrainian people had everything to do with it."

TAKE STOCK OF FIRE HAZARDS THIS WEEK, CHIEF URGES

Three Out Of Every Four Fires
Are Preventable, Mc-
Gillan Says

Fire Prevention week, which commenced Sunday, Oct. 7, and continues until Oct. 13, provides an excellent opportunity for every one to take stock of fire hazards in one's own home or place of business, according to Chief George P. McGillan of the Appleton fire department.

With a view of keeping Appleton's fire loss record as low as possible in order that this city may continue to have the low insurance rate, Chief McGillan, the chief is naturally anxious that all residents cooperate with the fire department in fire prevention.

Five losses throughout the country continue to increase from year to year," said Chief McGillan last year 15,000 persons burned to death and $521,590,000 worth of property was destroyed by fire. This was the greatest loss in history. Most of the fires were preventable.

359 FIRES A DAY
Fires occur in American homes at the rate of 359 every 24 hours. A fresh outbreak occurs every four minutes. At least three of every four need not start. Every minute six destroy $993 in property.

The chief based his figures on statistics that have reached him from the National Board of Fire Underwriters, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and other organizations which are cooperating in an effort to curb fires.

Here are a few suggestions that the chief submitted for the prevention of fires:

Watch your disposal of matches and lighted smoking materials; always keep matches out of reach of small children.

Use proper fuses in your electrical circuits; the fuse is the safety-valve of the system and should not be tampered with.

Turn off electric stoves and other heating devices while attending to something else.

A gas leak should not be hunted with an open flame light; use a flash light, and apply soap suds to the suspected part of the pipe, so that the leak will reveal itself.

Gasoline and other volatile liquids make dangerous cleaning fluids; many safe compounds are on the market.

Defective chimneys and flues should be kept in repair.

Before the winter comes on, all smoke-pipes should be cleaned of soot; if they are clogged, they may overheat and start fires when the furnace is operated.

Walls, ceilings and partitions should be shielded from the overheating of stoves, furnaces and pipes.

Hot ashes belong in metal containers, not in wooden boxes and barrels.

Oil lamps or stoves are safely filled only by daylight.

Accumulations of rubbish and litter are breeding places for fire.

Open fires should always be screened.

They are issued in denominations of $25, $50 and $100, purchasable at $20.50, $50 and $95. They earn 4 per cent interest compounded semi-annually and can be redeemed at any time before maturity at a rate of about 3 per cent. Grade Children Eligible To
Exposition Race

Parochial schools as well as public schools will be included in the essay contest of the Wisconsin Products exposition in Milwaukee in December, according to a letter received from the director of the exhibit by Secretary Hugh G. The six best essays in each category will entitle the winners to a trip to Milwaukee during the exposition. Each participant making the journey will be required to write an essay on his return describing what he had seen. The winner of this latter competition will receive $100.

The rules of the contest will be mailed to superintendents of schools quite soon.

Painters are working on the dormitories, and the new fire escapes are partially in place. The building committee will meet next week to consider the matter of new equipment.

Walls, ceilings and partitions should be shielded from the overheating of stoves, furnaces and pipes.

Hot ashes belong in metal containers, not in wooden boxes and barrels.

Oil lamps or stoves are safely filled only by daylight.

Accumulations of rubbish and litter are breeding places for fire.

Open fires should always be screened.

Plays By Noted Spanish Dramatist Popular Here

Jacinto Benavente, the winner of the Nobel prize in literature in 1922, has long been recognized throughout Europe as a truly great dramatist. His third series of plays printed in 1923 has been among the best circulated in Appleton public library. It is only in the last few years that his reputation has spread to this country through the translation of some of his most significant plays by John Garret Underhill. They appear as the first, second and third series.

In Spain, Benavente has been a great, popular figure for many years. In 1915 he took his chair as one of the thirty-six members of the Royal Academy. His popularity is as great, apparently, in all Spanish American countries, as his recent tour has proved; everywhere he went he was received with the most intense enthusiasm.

Benavente was born in Madrid in 1866. His early training was designed to prepare him for the law, but he soon found that philosophy and literature were more to his liking. After completing his education at the University of Madrid he devoted his entire time to study of the theatre. His first play, "Gente Conocida," which firmly established his reputation as a dramatist when he was past thirty.

Since that time 75 of his plays have been presented. His "His Widow's Husband," "The Bonds of Interest," and "The Governor's Wife" are among the well known ones.

Another non-fiction book which has been especially good at the local library is "Outline of Science" by Thomson. More than ever science as a study is arousing interest. It being read by persons merely interested in knowing it as well as for study.

The sixth annual convention of the Wisconsin State Chapter of the American Institute of Banking will be held at Milwaukee Oct. 15 and 16. It is possible that some of the local banks will be represented, but not all of them. Officials of some of the banks said they did not expect their banks to be represented, while others said it was too early to make a definite statement.

The state chapter includes junior officers and employees of all Wisconsin banks, many of whom are pursuing educational courses in banking, law and economics by correspondence methods.

WHY NOT HAVE SOME REAL PROGRESS?

Lieut.-Gov. Comings, in his latest criticism of the state administration made this statement:

A tremendous suspicion exists that antiquated and expensive methods are in vogue, that a needless number of inspectors and employees of various kinds are employed, that standardization of labor and expense bills for travel are entirely lacking, and in short that the old time slogan of competition "each for himself, the devil take the hindmost" is the rule in the capitol building.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor in its report to the Portland convention said:

The continuing clamor for extension of state regulatory powers under the guise of reform and deliverance from evil can but lead into greater confusion and more hopeless entanglements.

It is common knowledge that the state of Wisconsin is overrun with inspectors, examiners and commissions. The politicians at Madison have overlooked no opportunity to create public officials of this kind. Under the pretense of regulating the affairs of industry, business and private activities in general, a great system of inquisitorial administration has been built up. These appointees constitute a small army of henchmen, whose duties in no small measure are to look after the political interests of the governor and those associated with him in power. Many of them are superfluous and useless. They constitute an effective machine for those who give them bread and butter, but outside of that much of the service they are supposed to perform is of negligible value or is positively detrimental.

They represent exactly the extension "of state regulatory powers, under the guise of reform and deliverance from evil" that the American Federation of Labor complains of. The system subjects business and industry to burdensome red tape. It leads to confusion and to needless expense. We get a fair idea of what the expense is to taxpayers when we consider the fact that this politico-administrative machine today costs Wisconsin $20,000,000 annually, whereas only a little more than 10 years ago it was only $5,000,000. Much of this is pure extravagance and is as deplorable as it is inexcusable.

Mr. Comings has been lieutenant-governor long enough to familiarize himself with the situation and to see the inquiry of the system. He makes the frank admission that there has been no improvement in conditions under so-called progressive administration. On the contrary jobs have gone on multiplying in number and the bill for this political manager has steadily mounted. That is why the administration sought so desperately at the last legislature session to increase taxes. We are now asked to go still further along the same road to the realms of super-progressiveness. Reform through regulation is to be enlarged and extended, swelling the army of political hangers-on and littering up the payrolls with mere inquisitors. The true reform that Wisconsin should embark upon is to cut out about half of these boards, commissions and inspectors, put a halt on interference with business that the American Federation of Labor demands and reduce state expenditures by some millions of dollars. That would be progress in the right direction.

GOOD BYE, TOKIO

News comes to Washington, official news, that 1,068,000 persons have fled from Tokio, hurried by awful dread of another disaster. Wherever these fugitives scurried in the islands of Japan the same danger will be imminent. Yet the thought that their new homes have never been upset by rocking and upheaval of the earth, stills their alarm.

The roster of those whom the earth swallowed in its yawning figures never will be complete. For the official report states that 103,000 were killed by the earthquake, and 125,000 injured, while 235,000 are missing. Homes destroyed number 34,000. The damage to property is estimated at $2,500,000,000 to $5,000,000,000. Words cannot describe the horrors of the calamity nor the misery and grief of its aftermath. The imagination can but vaguely picture the suffering and woe of the worst natural tragedy in human experience.

COMMUNITY SELF-RELIANCE

In an address to members of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, in Mt. Vernon, Ill., Dr. C. M. Thompson, dean of the commerce college of the University of Illinois, made some telling points about the duties of citizenship. His topic was "Taxation," but he spoke particularly of the point of view which taxpayers should take with regard to public improvements and assessments.

Dr. Thompson referred to the device, often used in late years, of the federal and state governments and of the state and county governments of marching appropriations for public work or use. The federal government appropriates a certain amount of money for a certain purpose on condition that a state government appropriates a certain amount, or a state sets aside money to be matched by a county. Very few taxpayers are familiar with the operation of this plan, which, he explained, is a disguise. They believe that the money from the federal government is a gift, and they are willing that the state should put up a like amount, in order, as they believe, to obtain something for nothing.

Dr. Thompson declared that the taxpayers provide the money, by taxation, whether the federal, or the state, or the county, or the city government actually makes the payment. The money is derived from taxation, and the taxpayers pay the taxes. Improvements that the people want should be made, he continued, but the people should not then complain against payment of taxes. Citizens should study these questions and furnish all the money required for desired work, but discontinue expenditures inconsistent with real needs or community ideals.

Every community, Dr. Thompson argued, should take care of its own problems and pay for what it wants. Community spirit is better, stronger, more resourceful, more achieving, when the citizenship is self-reliant. "The community that installs conveniences and prosecutes the improvements which it needs or wishes carried out its own ideals and goes forward at a cost commensurate with its wealth and progress. It is not deceived by the 'match-appropriation,' and does not habituate itself to look outside for help.

The fundamentals of taxation, as described by Dr. Thompson, are no different than those of representative government, or those which guide the ambitious individual. Self-help is the wisest and cheapest help, as well as the best. Every community would do better to work out its own problems, with its own money, according to its own standards.

NEURALGIA IN THE HEAD

At first glance neuralgia of the head suggests such terms as pneumonia of the lungs or gastritis of the stomach, yet neuralgia occurs in many places other than the head, though perhaps it is most common in the head.

When one complains of neuralgia he usually means trifacial neuralgia which is ache or pain in one of more branches of the trifacial (fifth cranial) nerve. There are three main branches, one going to the forehead, one to the upper jaw, one to the lower jaw, while the ache is confined to one branch only the victim of the neuralgia should be "pricked," just as a man feels when he falls and breaks an arm and a few ribs—thankful it isn't his neck.

But to return to our neurology—and neurology is right this time for it means study of nerves. Neuralgia means nerve ache or nerve pain. Neuritis means nerve inflammation whether attended with pain or not. Neurasthenia means lack of nerve strength or something like that—a hypothetical state for of course nerves have no strength and there is no such thing as nerve energy, or nerve power. Nerves are mere conductors of messages, they never produce energy or power. That is a trite thing to say, yet so many deluded people fall into the habit of assuming that there is such a thing as nerve energy and that one's store of such energy may become exhausted when the "nerves run down"—a silly notion. If you have just a smattering of physiology—yet a notion which, I regret to confess some doctors still foster among their clients.

Head or facial neuralgia varies in severity from a comparatively endurable dull aching to that most distressing of head pains, the doloureux, in which there are agonizing spasms of pain occurring suddenly and frequently during the attack.

A great many people with neuralgia fondly imagine they have neuritis which, to the untrained, seems more plausible.

The old timers really had little to say; so they used to ascribe neuralgia to such conventional causes as the climate, cold, uremia, anemia, rheumatism and the like, all of which are now recognized as not true. Somebody hit upon the poetic fancy that anemia is a cause of neuralgia and expressed it as "the dry of the nerve for more blood." Very pretty, but not sound, for as a matter of fact, in general anemia, neuralgia is seldom complained of, while the nerves should be screaming for more blood all the time.

The truth is that there is always a local cause for facial neuralgia. Decayed or infected or impacted teeth are probably the commonest cause. The impacted unerupted third molar (wisdom tooth) is a notorious cause of intractable neuralgia in young adults. Nearly half of all adults over 25 years of age have one or more of these wisdom teeth. Strus infection or other trouble within the nose is a frequent cause of facial neuralgia. Tumors or other lesions in the brain, involving or pressing upon the centers from which the nerves arise or upon the tracts or roots of the nerves, are some times responsible for neuralgia. Degeneration of the Gasserian ganglion of the trifacial nerve is often responsible for the doloureux and demands exclusion of the standard for relief.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Ripe Tomatoes

Please give me some good, fresh, crisp information about ripe tomatoes, about their foodcity and their medicinal virtues, if they have any. I have read many benefits by reading and applying things you give in your column.—B. S. C.

Answer: Well, don't apply any ripe tomatoes. Tomatoes are rich in the scurvy preventing vitamin and for that reason, tomato juice, fresh or canned, is about as good as orange juice for in fact it's rich with pasteurized or canned milk. Tomatoes, freshly eaten tend to increase acidity in the blood and tissues and to decrease acidity in the urine. They are therefore a wholesome item of diet in these days of acidosis. Besides all this, tomatoes are appetizing and good to eat, if you like 'em.

It was a place of rendezvous and dispersion of the various tribes when preparing to move upon their enemies or to go on hunting and fishing expeditions. Club Made Ready For Open House

"Bring the Men" Is Slogan For Womans Club Opening Tuesday Evening

"By all means bring the men" appears to be the slogan of Appleton Womans club committee as they prepare for the housewarming of the new club buildings at the corner of Harris and Open streets at 7:30 Tuesday evening. The date of the formal opening of the clubhouse has only enhanced the possibilities of the building and the members are more than anxious to show off the property which they have bought without asking for contributions from the men.

It is almost like settling a house for a bride, this furnishing of Appleton Womans clubhouse. When you are taken through, Mr. Man, you will be told that this furniture was given to the club by a group of kind friends and a gift from a kind friend, the Victoria belongs to the music department and you will see what fun your wife and daughters have had and can have at the club.

No formal program has been planned by the committee for the evening because it is expected that people will come and go throughout the evening. Several conservatory artists will play and the ukulele club will give several selections throughout the evening.

Effort is being made to let people know that the clubhouse will be thrown open to the entire city on Tuesday evening. Anyone who cares to go through the house will be welcomed. A special invitation is being extended to those who never saw the other club quarters.

CLUB MEETINGS

The radio club of Appleton high school will have a meeting at 7:30 Monday evening. The main business will be the choosing the textbook for the year.

Because of the housewarming in the clubhouse of Appleton Womans club on Tuesday evening, several of the regular clubs and classes have had to change their time of meeting. The dramatic workshop will meet from 7 to 8 instead of 7 to 9, and crafts classes will be postponed until Wednesday evening while the sewing class will be held an evening in advance on Monday.

Sports council of Appleton Womans club will have its first monthly meeting at 6 o'clock Thursday evening. Representatives to the council have been elected by the various clubs and classes and will begin their work on Thursday evening.

The Tourist club will meet with Mrs. W. E. McPheters, 443 Alton-st. Monday. Mrs. Stephen Rossbach will have charge of the program, which is on "Giotto and the Rise of Painting."

Miss Ruth Krueser, 553 Clark-st. will be hostess to the Chevrolet Helpers club of the German Methodist church Tuesday evening. A social hour will follow the business session.

NINE GIRLS ON CLUB'S SUNDAY HIKE TO DARBOY

Nine Appleton girls sat before a glowing fire by the side of the road between Darboy and Little Chute enjoying the sweet aroma of meat as it cooked over the fire and dripped its sputtering juice onto the coals. They were the girls who met at Appleton Womans clubhouse at 2:30 Sunday afternoon for the weekly Sunday hike to Darboy and then to Little Chute. The bus brought them home from Little Chute and as they sat in the country "this is a good time was reported by all."

WOMAN SICK TWO YEARS

Cause by Troubles Women Often Have—Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Medina, New York.—"I had a great deal of trouble such as women often have, and this affected my nerves. For two years I suffered this way, then I read in the Buffalo Times about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have taken it with very good results. I am very much better and feel justified in praising the Vegetable Compound to my friends and neighbors who suffer from anything of the kind."—Mrs. Wm. H. Adams, 311 Elm Road, Medina, N. Y.

Feels Like Girl Sixteen

Rochester, N. Y.—"After my twin girls were born I was all run-down. My neighbors thought I was going to die. I saw your advertisement in the paper and bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The first bottle helped me and I kept on taking it. I only weighed ninety pounds when I began taking it, and I have gained in weight and feel like a girl of sixteen. I never can say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. NELLIE DORR, 46 Skuse Park, Rochester, N. Y.

Free "Graduate" Work Is Offered To Cooks At School Thursday

While the doctors go away to attend clinics, the teachers attend summer school sessions and the business men attend special conferences and conventions at which to keep in touch with the progress of their professions, new cooks take the trouble to go away to study up in their field. The Appleton Post-Crescent has brought a short course in cooking to the Appleton women through the courtesy of the Corn Products Refining company and will give a little "graduate" work free to any woman who chooses to attend the lectures at the vocational school from 2 to 4 o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoon. Miss Mary Schumacher, who gave a series of talks here last year will give the lectures, accompanied by demonstrations.

Four phases of the culinary art will be covered during the short course. The first is the all important subject of meat. What woman is there who does not decide at least once a week that there were not enough kinds of meat created to last through the week to say nothing of the year? Miss Schumacher has a lot of suggestions that will make your family sit up and call for another helping. What could be more pleasing to a cook?

NEW DESSERTS

One the second day, Miss Schumacher will demonstrate conclusively that there are many more desserts than the restaurant specials, namely, ice cream and pie. She will give you many ideas for pleasing the sweet tooth of each member of the family and once more the family will ask for a second helping and forget to count the calories.

If there is one thing on earth that hurts a "fine cook's" vanity it is to have the family say that the food tastes all right but it looks ordinary. Miss Schumacher will overcome this difficulty on Thursday when she will show you how to fix up special dishes for special occasions. She had a fund of information on this particular subject last year and will probably have much more after another year of traveling about.

FOX TROT SKILL Will Be Tried At Club Party

The fox trot contest which will feature the community dance at Armory G on Tuesday evening is attracting a good deal of attention. The sports council of Appleton Womans club, which is giving the dance, has been careful to select judges for the contest who will place the emphasis on good form in dancing. Prizes to other community dances will be awarded as prizes.

A new incentive for helping with the decorations has been manufactured by those who always have to work out the decoration plans and then put them up. The girls who have had considerable experience along this line are urging others to help because by helping they will learn how to decorate large halls in a variety of colors and designs. Black cats and orange and black streams will be used Tuesday evening to make the party a Halloween affair.

Get Report Cards for first quarter

The report cards for the first quarter of the students at Appleton high school were given out on Monday. The students will be allowed to keep them two days for their parents' signatures. All cards must be back at the school by Wednesday.

I want to ask you, say little Marquise, if ever in your brilliant and interesting life you had anything that seemed quite as much like one of those comicalities with which fate overpowers one as did that unexpected visit of Karl Whitney's?

Although neither John's mother nor Priscilla Bradford had said anything directly, I felt as though in some way they connected that string of pearls with Karl Whitney. Perhaps it was because I could not get it out of my head either that he was in some way connected with them, that I grew faint and I knew I was very pale when his name was announced.

"How strange," said Mrs. Prescott, "that a man should call upon you at this late hour?"

"It isn't a man," I broke in impetuously; "it's Karl Whitney." And I went to the door to meet him. Because they had been so insinuating and suspicious I know that I greeted Karl much more warily than I would have done otherwise, and besides I, too, was rather curious about his coming.

"What is the matter?" I asked. "Isn't everyone well?"

"I think so," answered Karl, "but I had business in the city which is just beyond this little town and as I had received a wireless from Alice today I thought I would stop and tell you about it."

"Come in, I want to introduce you to John's mother." Karl followed me into the room and you can imagine my surprise and anger, say little Marquise, when we went from the hall to the sitting room, to find that neither Mrs. Prescott nor Priscilla were there.

It was the most deliberate insult I have ever encountered in my life. Mrs. Prescott's bedroom is directly off the living room and I went to the door which I noticed had been left ajar. I rapped with such violence that it opened fully and disclosed the two women standing in the middle of the room.

"Come and meet my childhood friend, Karl Whitney. Karl, I want you to know Mrs. Prescott."

Are you sure, Mrs. Prescott, that you are able to meet visitors," spoke up Priscilla Bradford.

At that I saw red. "Please allow Mrs. Prescott to be her own judge," said Mrs. Bradford, as to whether she will deliberately insult her son's wife or follow the nasty backbiting, suspicious program that you have laid out for her ever since my marriage."

"Hesip, Leslie, what do you mean?" said Mrs. Prescott, her eyes flashing.

"I mean exactly what I say. That woman has always wanted to marry your son and she has spied upon me ever since Lewis married. She has turned my most innocent acts into something sinister in your mind."

"Did John show you my last letter?"

"No, he did not, but I know her well enough to know exactly what she was doing. Either she leaves this house tonight or I leave it."

"Karl, is your car at the door?"

"Poor Karl! It took all my anger away to see his face. I knew that he was wishing with all his heart that he had never come to see me."

"FORGIVE ME." The same letter, continued—Diplomatically dismissed.

SUPERIOR DOCKS FULL DESPITE COAL STRIKE

Superior—Despite the strike of anthracite coal miners, which prevented the shipment of coal to the head of the lake during the greater part of the month of September, total receipts at the Superior-Duluth docks are greater now than the average of the past six years.

This statement was made by the United States harbor engineer's office. The increase in coal tonnage is over 3,000,000 tons.

Hard coal stocks are at present 360,000 tons short of what has been estimated as an average receipt here.

KAUKAUNA NEWS

Manitowoc Gives Legion Grid Game Hoped-for Fight

Tough Battle At Kaukauna Ends In 18 To 6 Win For Ashes' Squad

Kaukauna—Football fans who desired excitement were treated to thrills galore when it took the strongest lineup of the American Legion football team to defeat Manitowoc 18 to 6 here Sunday afternoon. Besides managing to score once on the Kaukauna team, the ship yard city put up such a scrap that the huge crowd in attendance was on its feet every minute. Manitowoc placed the ball in scoring position in the third quarter after a magnificent forward pass but the play within the ten yard line. The pass itself netted a gain of about 35 yards.

The aerial game worked quite successfully for the visitors in the opening periods and they gained at will but when they relied entirely on that form of football their efforts were soon frustrated. Kaukauna scored a touchdown in the first quarter but failed to get another marker during the half.

After the legion's second touchdown, Manitowoc scored its marker. The fact galled the locals to strenuous attempts and they tipped up the "visitors" line in a manner that brought frantic cheers from the stands. Quarterback Brenzel piloted his eleven through the heavier aggression but always within easy scoring distance, the invaders' line held and the ball changed hands. Once the legion lost the ball, their failure to make the yards by a half a foot only eight yards from goal.

"Come!" Brenzel, quarterback, snatched his ankle in the third quarter and Carl Anderson was called in to take the reins. "Cut!" Engstrom who played fullback, was pounced upon regularly until he was taken out. Elger Ott took his place and the strengthened backfield tore through for larger gains than before. No other substitutions were made during the entire game. Three or four visitors were injured enough to put them out. The manager, however, was continually changing players so that a fresh team was always facing Coach Ashes' squad.

PIGEON CLUB MEETING

Membership in the club is expected to increase rapidly.

WESTERN CABBAGE SEED ARRIVES FOR COUNTY FARMERS

Seed Treated For Stump Rot Has Cut Farmers' Losses, Expert Says

The cabbage seed that has been grown near Mt. Vernon, Wash., for the Outagamie-co Cabbage Growers' association has been received by President Phil Bixby. The seed is plump and in fine condition.

Dr. J. C. Walker of the United States department of agriculture and the Wisconsin Agricultural college, was in Washington during the cabbage seed harvest in August and gave his personal supervision to the threshing, cleaning and bagging of the seed. He sealed the sacks with lead seals and they came through with the seals unbroken. Cabbage growers are getting the progeny of the Ferry strain of seed for reproduction.

R. E. Vaughan, the plant health specialist of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, was in Appleton recently and examined several cabbage fields with Robert Amundsen, county agent. The stump rot and black rot which a few years ago caused so much damage around Appleton can hardly be found this year.

No thanks can be given to the season for farmers around Bear Creek and Seymour lost heavily this year. The explanation is found in the practice of treating the seed with corrosive sublimate which was explained by Mr. Vaughan.

G. H. Lonkey of Shiocton has been active in his vicinity in practicing and talking about good seed, seed treatment and fertilization with the result that where treated seed was used there was not a loss from rot. Where seed was not treated the loss from stump rot may be half the crop in the fields. Cabbage from such fields will not be safe for storage because rot will develop after the heads are put in the house, according to Mr. Amundsen.

Cabbage seed treatment should be supplemented by rotation of the seed bed, if greatest insurance against losses from rot are to be received, because the rot germs live in the soil for a year or two at least and are carried to the fields on young plants from the seed beds. If any farmers used treated seed and have rot, they should look carefully to their seed beds or use of manure that has had opportunity of coming in contact with rotten cabbage, Mr. Amundsen said.

Mr. Amundsen plans to arrange several cabbage seed treatment meetings next spring and have Mr. Vaughan present to discuss cabbage diseases and their control.

JANESVILLE CITY BOSS CUTS FORCE

Many Improvements Made In City Rule By Manager In Office Three Weeks

Janesville—Although Henry Traxler, a native of Milwaukee, who came here from Clarinda, Iowa, to become city manager, has only been in office three weeks, changes in city affairs are being made to improve.

Since he assumed office the health and water boards voluntarily offered their resignations and both departments are now controlled by the manager, who has assigned the detail work to an assistant city engineer. Both boards have been abolished.

SIMPLIFIES CITY BOOKKEEPING

A new system of bookkeeping is now being worked out. It is proposed for the future to have only one bookkeeping department for all city departments.

Another change in the enforcement of the new ordinance regulating public dances. It limits the capacity of each hall. For each dance a matron is provided to see that order is maintained. The matron has police authority.

REGULATE POOL HALLS

Permits are issued for pool halls and strict regulations provided. Violations cause revocation of permits and in this way disorderly places can be put out of business.

Traxler was born in Milwaukee, 35 years ago. He is a graduate of the East Side high school and of the engineering department of the state university. In 1915 he went to Los Angeles to engage in highway construction work. Returning to Madison later to complete his studies, he later became city manager at Clarinda, Iowa, from where he was called to assume the position here.

FARMING

Notes from Outagamie-co

BY W. F. WINSEY

Grand Chute—In point of product handled, the school section creamery managed by Joseph Ertl is one of the largest in the county. Although the amount of milk received is now reduced to 5,000 pounds daily, it was formerly 16,000 pounds through the summer. Besides his own cream, Mr. Ertl is shipping cream to Chicago for Himmelman brothers, Twelve Corners and Martin Kading, of New London. The patrons of the creamery are now using one-half of the skim milk for hog feed and from the balance Mr. Ertl is making casing for an Appleton paper company.

Shiocton Route 1—Earl Koestler declares that owing to stump rot, black rot and leaf rot, his cabbage has been gradually decreasing in size the past month. Mr. Koestler says that cabbage yielding from 3 to 4 tons to the acre although a short time ago growers expected to get as high as 20 tons to the acre. Three weeks ago, Mr. Koestler couldn't find a rotten cabbage in his patch but now a large part of the crop is rotten.

Appleton, Route 3—William Schneider started raising Brown Swiss cattle five years ago by purchasing Silver King, a purebred sire from Charles Kettel, Oshkosh. He now has one purebred cow and is milking nine, seven-eighths grades. Mr. Schneider will join a milk testing association as soon as he can and is a thorough believer in T. B. tested herds.

Appleton, Route 3—Mrs. Leo Hegner says that the Hortonyville Canning company induced her to raise one acre of beans the past season. From the acre she sold $100 worth of beans and if she had had pickers, she could have done much better. Mr. Schroeder of the canning company told Mrs. Hegner that if she took care of her beans and picked them at the proper time, she ought to realize $400 from her acre. Mrs. Hegner is of the opinion that Tim McCarthy realized $500 an acre from his crop of beans. By picking them at the right time, Mr. McCarthy got 7 cents a pound for his beans while Mrs. Hegner got only 6 cents. The pay for picking is a cent a pound and a fair picker can pick 150 pounds a day. Mrs. Hegner says she will plant 3 acres to beans next year.

Town of Maine—D. L. Carpenter says that the early frost this season caused him a loss of $1,000 on two acres of watermelons and muskmelons. The vines in his patch are dead and the ground is covered with melons of good quality that failed to ripen. In the past when frost has not

NORA AND MAGGIE SONGS GOING BIG

Old Favorites Still Are Selling Well To Appleton Record Buyers

"No No Nora" was one of the most popular phonograph records last week. "That Old Gang of Mine" and "Maggie" are close seconds. Billy Murray, who featured "Maggie" when he appeared with the eight Victor artists in Lawrence Memorial chapel last week, has had, no doubt, a great deal to do with the popularity of the record. "My Sweetie Went Away," "Cholina Mammy," "Cut Yourself a Piece of Cake," and "Indiana Moon" are still having big sales.

The five best sellers in each make of record last week were as follows:

Columbia: Cut Yourself a Piece of Cake, I Love Me, Weeping Blues, Mad, Danny Boy (Maurel).

Edison: Marchetta, Wonderful One, Louisville, Hi-Lo, One Hour of Love (Charles Hart).

Okeh: I'm Drifting Back to Dreamland, Carolina Mammy, Bobby Blues, No No Nora, That Old Gang of Mine.

Brunswick: No No Nora, Cut Yourself a Piece of Cake, Duck's Quack, My Sweetie Went Away, Lonesome-That's All (Franklin).

Vocalion: George M. Cohen Medley, Fox Trot, Old Favorite Medley, No No Nora, Mad, Egyptian Ballet (Aolian Symphony Orchestra).

Victor: No No Nora, Love Tales, Indiana Moon, Maggie, Adante Cantabile (Elman String Quartet).

Michael Gainor Still Sings Irish Songs Despite 87 Years

Mackville Pioneer Male And Hearty After Long And Active Life

BY W. F. WINSEY
After working in the garden all the morning, Michael Gainor, 87 year old Mackville, complained to the writer a few days ago, that he was getting a little weaker day by day and less able to stand physical exertion than when he was young.

"Are you not in good health?" inquired the writer.

"Yes," was the prompt reply, "I have a good appetite, sleep soundly and was never ill a day in my life."

"If that is the case and if you would go easy on that work in the garden, you might hold your own and even notice some improvement," suggested the writer. "You are no spring chicken and you should not try to keep pace with young birds."

After this introductory dialogue was completed in the Gainor home, Mr. Gainor for the entertainment of his guest sang a good old Irish song, stimulated by the words and the music, weariness was displaced by animation.

At this point, Mr. Gainor declared that he had sung Irish songs and played the violin in his home and at parties and dances for the last fifty years.

In October, 1877, soon after he was married to Johanna Barry while working for the Barrys near Mackville, Mr. Gainor bought a stock of goods in Chicago and opened up a general store and saloon in Mackville.

2 FAMILIES IN VILLAGE
At the time Mr. Gainor started in business, he had, as competitors in the saloon-business, two, Ralph and Edward McGillion. There were only two families living in the village and David Barry who cut down the first tree in the town of Center was living to the north of the village. Barry settled in the town of Center in 1848.

A log church, built by Peter Hephner, who settled in Mackville in 1849 and who donated the land for a new church and the cemetery, was standing when Gainor opened up his doors for business, but the frame of the new church had been put up.

Mr. Gainor was a large contributor to the building of the new church and new sisters' house and helped to build them. As soon as he could, he bought the old house, formerly occupied by the sisters, moved it to an acre of ground and is now living in the house and working the land.

After enjoying a very prosperous business for a long time of years, and setting aside a snug little fortune, Gainor rented his store to Philip Barry in 1890 and retired from business. His store burned to the ground in 1898.

To rebuild he sold his five houses in Appleton, moved back again to Mackville and when the new building was ready for occupancy, opened up a new general store and saloon. He continued in business till nine years ago when he sold out to his son Joseph and retired for the second time.

In 1847, when the famine in Ireland drove a number of emigrants to America, the Gainor family and a party of relatives and friends started from the city of Limerick for Quebec.

Michael Gainor, the widely heralded discovery of B. F. Shattuck, will have a difficult time living up to the work she has done in this, her first picture under her new contract. Miriam Cooper is, as always, sweetly appealing and convincing. Truly, Shattuck, whom we all know through her vaudeville success, wins new laurels as the title seeking mother. Viola Vale is her own sweet self.

Stuart Holmes deserves a paragraph all to himself. The man we have followed through the rest of his intriguing villainy in the past, has emerged into a fascinatingly human bit of characterization that threw an entirely new and interesting light upon him.

"Daughters of the Rich" is a fitting sequel to its highly successful predecessors of the screen. The highest praise may be applied to it and summed up in these words:

It is great entertainment.

"DOWN HOME" BIG RURAL DRAMA
For today and Tuesday at The New Bijou. Manager Cook has secured an Irvin Weller production, "Down Home" from the well known book "Down Home" by F. N. Westcott a brother of the author of "David Harum."

For powerful acting, scenic splendor, and tense situations this combination of a great author, a fine story, a big cast and a capable director places "Down Home" well up in the roster of big rural productions.

The picture embraces all the sweetest elements of rural life and tells one of the most vivid human dramatic stories ever witnessed on the screen.

It has everything that goes to make it one of the bigger and better pictures. A wonderful love story, a great fight, laughter and tears from start to finish. It throbs with interest and blends with smiles. Leatrice Joy and Edward Hearn are featured with a cast of well known players.

Still Sings

MICHAEL GAINOR

In the Gainor family were father and mother, Mrs. Patrick Patten, Appleton, and Mrs. John Barry. They went to Canada to join an uncle who had been writing and inviting them to come. The party landed at Montreal, stayed there a few weeks and proceeded by team and boat to Brantford, Canada, where the elder Gainor died.

After the death of the father the family moved to Norwich township, later to Woodstock and remained in Canada until October 1849. After the mother had married Philip Greening, a blacksmith, Thomas Hays, an uncle of the Gainors who was a builder of locks on the Fox river, invited the family to come to the Fox river valley.

After clearing and improving the farm, in 1853, when the war of the rebellion was on, the family "sold out" and shipped the household goods and located on a farm near Prairie du Chien. In 1858, the Iowa farm was disposed of and the family moved to Fond du Lac, settling on a farm of 120 acres four miles southeast of the city.

The family remained on the latter place five years when a sale was again made and another farm of 250 acres was bought at Seven Mile Creek. Later the family again sold out and returned to Chilton.

When Mr. Gainor, subject of this sketch, returned to Chilton he worked at the carpenter trade several years before starting for Mackville. He was married in Chilton and the newly wedded pair naturally gravitated toward their relatives, the Barrys in Mackville.

Mr. Gainor was born in Tipperary, Ireland in 1836, was married to Johanna Barry in Chilton in 1856. Mrs. Gainor died in 1885 and he was married again in 1885 to Helen Holmstedt, still living. The children are, Mrs. Paul Schroeder, Appleton; George Oregon, Appleton; Mrs. Wynneberg, Appleton; Mrs. Edw. Verheulen, North Dakota; Mrs. Louis Harli, Seymour, Victor, living with his parents.

Plumbers Busy On Late Season Work

The late rush in fall building activities made September a busy month for the plumbers. Plumbing permits for the installation of 211 fixtures were issued last month by John Bauer, city plumbing inspector. This number, while below that of the summer months, is unusually large for this time of the year. The first week in October is also showing signs of much work in the plumbing line, according to Mr. Bauer.

Permits for the fixtures were as follows: Floor drains, 31, water closets, 49, wash basins, 37, sinks, 38, bath tubs, 32, conductors, 3, laundry tubs, 1. In addition to these permits, Mr. Bauer granted 34 water permits at $1 each, 13 sewer permits at $2 each, one water extension permit at $1 and one sewer repair permit at $1. Plumbers Busy On Late Season Work

The late rush in fall building activities made September a busy month for the plumbers. Plumbing permits for the installation of 211 fixtures were issued last month by John Bauer, city plumbing inspector. This number, while below that of the summer months, is unusually large for this time of the year. The first week in October is also showing signs of much work in the plumbing line, according to Mr. Bauer.

Permits for the fixtures were as follows: Floor drains, 31, water closets, 49, wash basins, 37, sinks, 38, bath tubs, 32, conductors, 3, laundry tubs, 1. In addition to these permits, Mr. Bauer granted 34 water permits at $1 each, 13 sewer permits at $2 each, one water extension permit at $1 and one sewer repair permit at $1. The total revenue for the month amounted to $175.

J. C. PENNEY CO.'S STORE NEWS

21st YEAR

OCTOBER, 1923

PRICES—LOWEST-IN-TOWN

21 YEARS OF CONTINUOUS GROWTH

In the golden west, a score and more years ago, a young man imbued with all the confidence in the future which that great section abundantly promised, one day dropped the train in a mining town in Wyoming and soon laid the corner stone of what was to become the world's greatest chain of department stores.

The man was James Cash Penney. His tremendous success in the country's mercantile field is now too well known to need further emphasis. His achievements rank with those of A. T. Stewart, John Wanamaker, Marshall Field and other great merchants whose names stand for all there is in progressive storekeeping.

His story is that of the country lad reared in a home of moderate circumstances, and forced to meet problems early in youth. A native of Hamilton, Mo., he attended the public schools, graduating from the high school with the class of '93.

The local store in Hamilton employed Mr. Penney the year after he finished his schooling. He attained some success in hog raising, horse trading and watermelon growing, but convinced that there was more of a future in merchandising he succeeded in getting a position in the general store. The owner agreed to pay young Penney $25 if he finished out the year—eleven months.

After three years in the Hamilton store, where he had attained to a salary of $300 annually, Mr. Penney went to Colorado, where he got a position with the Joslyn's Dry Goods Company in Denver. Seeing no future for himself in a department store, Mr. Penney shortly afterward entered the butcher business, but soon he realized that he could never make a success dependent upon the necessity of slaughter; it was not in his line.

In 1902 Mr. Penney went to Kemmerer, Wyo., a small mining town, to open a store for Johnson & Callahan. He received only $50 a month, but he had a third interest in the store, and in time that undertaking became the start of the J. C. Penney Company. He took his first step toward his partners in 1908 and in 1913 incorporated the business.

Starting with the one small store in 1902, another was added the following year, and still another the third year. In 1908, the year Mr. Penney bought out his original partners, two more stores were opened and nearly every year since then has witnessed the addition of more stores. In 1910, there were 14 stores; ten years later, in 1920, the number had grown to 312, and today there are 475 stores scattered throughout 33 states.

In 1902, the gross business amounted to $28,851.11. Last year, $49,935,729.06 told the story of the great growth of the business in such a comparatively brief space of time.

The J. C. Penney Company at its inception, and it has never faltered in its unflinching adherence during the intervening years up to the present time, conducted its business on a policy of broadest fairness with every customer. As a matter of fact, the great esteem in which the Company is held throughout the United States may be attributed to two things: First, the same just treatment alike to all ways, and, secondly, the uniformly good values and popularly low prices.

Extravagance has caused the ruin of nations as well as individuals all through history. Thrift—the virtue of spending less than one earns—has laid the foundations for great personal fortunes and for the prosperity of nations.

During the World War people learned the importance of thrift—in scrutinizing their purchases more closely they studied values and shopped more carefully. They learned that at the store that sells for cash, they are not called upon to pay the advance which is required to cover interest on "charge accounts" and to recover non-collectable accounts.

The savings afforded by the "cash only" plan and "take-home-your-cash" rule of the J. C. Penney Company constituted a big item in thrift and people appreciated it more and more as their experience expanded.

There are more reasons than one to explain why the J. C. Penney Company's "cash only" prices are notably the lowest in the 475 communities where their stores are located: There is the economy of large-scale buying, the advantages gained through the Company paying cash for what they buy, and the fact that they, too, in conducting their business, practice the thrift they preach.

This service to the people throughout the country has made of the J. C. Penney Company a household word and given it a Nation-wide significance. The Organization has been built up by encouraging young men to develop their talents and educate themselves in the business, then offering them a partnership in one of its stores with a further opportunity to acquire additional financial interests in new stores from time to time.

Do You Know—

Do you know why the J. C. Penney Company never has a so-called "sale" when that kind of storekeeping is practiced by so many merchants?

It never over-prices its goods. Its managers, upon receiving a new lot of goods, price them upon the basis of cost, adding a reasonable margin of profit. There is no room left in this margin to permit a further reduction for a "sale."

It never orders quality taken out of its goods in order to sell at lower prices—thus it never accumulates a quantity of undesirable merchandise which later has to be sold at "reduced prices" or a "clearance sale."

New goods are continuously arriving and leaving the store—never tarrying long enough to become out of style, old, shop-worn or otherwise undesirable, thus creating no occasion for a "sale."

The Company never buys "seconds," "imperfections," "bankrupt stocks," or any other character of merchandise that is unworthy. Again, the lack of the necessity of a "sale."

Merchants cannot afford to take off special discounts, unless special profits have been added. The J. C. Penney Company does not believe in that system.

It believes that an honest and fair price placed on an article is the price at which it should sell and your ability to judge quality and price induces you to buy at that price.

Shop at Home

There is no occasion to send or go away from home to do your buying when there is a J. C. Penney Company Store in your community. It will afford you every facility for buying that can be had elsewhere plus low prices.

A BUSY STORE IN APPLETON

Our store at 862-866 College Avenue is daily the scene of the most interesting and engaging activity.

One does not enter the welcoming atmosphere of its portals without becoming immediately impressed with the spirit of friendliness that prevails everywhere. A visit to the various departments is attended by painstaking and courteous salespeople, each exerting every effort to make the visitor's call one not alone of profit to herself but one so pleasant as to make it long to be remembered. Under such delightful circumstances it is not strange that shopping at the J. C. Penney Company Department Store is not a trial but a pleasure to be looked forward to.

Mr. J. R. Whitman, a merchant of extended experience, in coming to Appleton to make his permanent home and to manage this popular store, felt the call of the community and was delighted that his future home was to be amongst a people so enlightened, interesting and progressive.

The J. C. Penney Company Department Stores are not a "chain" of stores in the ordinary sense of the word. In nearly every instance, the resident manager is a partner with two or more others and shares in the fortunes or misfortunes as the case may be, of his individual store. It is an unique organization in that it is so organized as to retain all the advantages of partnership and still gain the buying and selling advantages of corporation. In this way, it is seen that the J. C. Penney Company Store here is a strictly local institution and enterprise, and as such is as much interested and concerned in the future welfare and growth of Appleton as any other firm or company.

A Typical American Family

The picture on this page is of "a family at home on an evening." It is a familiar scene—a happy, contented household. There, Grandmother, devoted, as usual, to her Bible; dear, sweet, untiring Mother, whose "work is never done;" Father, interrupted in the reading of his favorite newspaper by his frolicsome Daughter; Little Sister and her blocks and toys, with her Brother admiringly looking on, while at Father's slippers feet is the Dog, concerned in the playful kitten, who is getting into mischief with Mother's knitting yarn.

The supper dishes have been washed and put away. The clock

"The J. C. Penney Co. Serves More Than a Million Such Homes."

(It evidently was Grandfather's) tells us, it is just past seven, the evening lamp is lit, there is an inviting dish of apples and grapes on the table, and, to all appearances, the family will be just as pleased if their enjoyment of each other is not "jarred" by callers.

It is a picture of what may be safely described as "an average American home"—that type of home and household of which the J. C. Penney Company serves more than a million. It is the kind of home, too, that is the life and the spirit of every community in the 33 States in which the 475 Department Stores of this Company are located. It is these homes and the thrift practiced in them, upon which depends the stability of the Nation.

It is these typically American homes that the J. C. Penney Company strives to serve with the utmost help, with the daily personal and household requirements. That notable success has attended the effort, is shown by the remarkable growth of the Company.

IMPORTANT SAVINGS RESULTING FROM LARGE BUYING FOR 475 STORES

In this day of modern things, real success results from large-scale methods. People are not liable to accept without complaint, the old order of life. Where it appears, it is marked and sooner or later is looked upon reprovingly as a chapter of the past.

And large-scale operations are no longer looked upon with wonderment. They are accepted as a matter of course. People quickly accustom themselves to new privileges and opportunities and would feel that if they were denied them that the World was moving backward. But it has not always been so.

There are people living today who will recall that when the railroads were introduced they were not looked upon with favor because of the prevailing notion that traveling at a speed of thirty or more miles an hour would hinder the free circulation of blood.

Fulton's steamboat was ridiculed. The first pilot of a steamboat in England became so unpopular that the London hotels refused admission to him. Howe's first sewing machine was smashed by a mob. Westinghouse's air-brakes for railroads were "the imagination of a fool," so the experts said, and McCormick's mechanical reaper required years to overcome opposition.

Gas, electricity, automobiles, aeroplanes, all were regarded with the greatest doubts when they were introduced, and in the mercantile field the merchant who introduced more than one store "was biting off more than he could chew."

But the new order of things prevailed. From doubt and skepticism, people learned to realize and appreciate the importance to them of the great strides forward which modern invention and enterprise were making. Accustoming themselves to the greater conveniences and benefits, the only strange thing remaining about them is that they had not always existed.

The great American public today is enjoying and appreciating when buying personal and household needs, savings which the comparatively modern chain department store enterprise is providing. The chain of J. C. Penney Company department stores has won by unflinching service to the public a position of leadership.

It can give the service because in its tremendous requirement of merchandise it has lessened costs to consumers by creating volume to sales. Large savings result from its large buying for 475 stores.

Take for example, shoes. Its sales are so large that it could take the entire output of one or more shoe factories, yet, for good and sufficient reasons, it prefers to purchase from a number of factories and thereby offer a variety of shoes. In this way, it maintains an independent position, always insisting and getting the utmost quality at the least possible cost.

Have you ever considered what it means to you to have expert shoemen constantly on the lookout for the best shoes at the lowest possible price? And have you ever considered that you share in the savings which large centralized buying affords?

Other merchants are working hard to meet the requirements of the public, and there is no disposition to speak disparagingly of them, but it is plain that the store that operates alone cannot buy in the lots it can sell, as cheaply and with the same opportunities for selection, as the J. C. Penney Company with its 475 stores.

This is mentioned simply as an illustration of the basis upon which every department in the J. C. Penney Company stores do their work.

Whatever you buy in its stores—a coat, dress, suit, blouse, skirt, corset, hosiery, underwear, dry goods, notions, clothing, hat, shirt, gloves or even a pair of overalls—the article has been bought by the Company's long-experienced buyer, in most instances, direct from the maker, and selected by the resident or local store manager from the stocks thus assembled.

Thus, you understand, that new goods are almost continuously arriving at each J. C. Penney Company store and are the very best values that can be had anywhere.

It is inevitable that sometimes an article regardless of how carefully it was selected at this store to the final purchaser, may be a failure. Best intentions sometimes fail. However, it should be remembered that the store stands behind its goods and every failure of merchandise to serve as represented will be made good.

The J. C. Penney Company, unflinchingly stands for Quality, Service and Satisfaction.

Success is won, not by men but by the spirit that moves them. Whether there is in us the planter, the miner, the mechanic, the writer, the musician, the statesman or the merchant—enthusiasm alone brings forth the perfect expression of what we are and what we can do.

The addition this year of 104 new units to its already numerous multiples of department stores, is an evidence of the enthusiasm that moves the men of the J. C. Penney Company.

In The Store—

There is a certain something about a department store—an inspiration—an exposition—an opportunity—whatever it may be—that is intensely alluring.

It being a collection of varied wares from the trade marts of all parts of the world, assembled and displayed before you in attractive form, the first impulse is to possess it in liberal quantities.

Then comes the realization that at the moment there are only a comparatively few things you require and with the purpose of your call again fixed in your mind, you set out to visit the departments in which the goods are shown.

You go from one department to another until you have completed your shopping expedition for the day and then comes the happiest appreciation or the most distressing, according to your experience.

You not only have found enjoyment in the knowledge that you are now the owner of the goods you wanted, but you have reached a certain state of mind which determines whether you want to go back to the store for further purchases.

This deciding element in your buying is largely a matter of the attitude of the salespeople who have waited on you—their courtesy and their evident desire not only to sell goods to you but to help you select the right goods.

As is not infrequently so, the pleasure in buying is derived more from the attention you have received than from the knowledge that you possess the goods you desired.

This attention, craved and appreciated alike by every purchaser and particularly by women, is nothing more than you have a right to expect and demand wherever you bestow your trade.

The confidence you show in a store by patronizing it entitles you to justice—a fair and honorable price, and the same price every other customer would have to pay; and a price you and others pay every business day in the year.

Your patronage entitles you to Equality—receiving the same attention and courtesy from those who wait on you that they give another customer.

And when Justice and Equality are extended, a genuine Store Service will have been shown you, proving that your patronage—whether large or small—has been really appreciated. No one wants to trade where a customer is not appreciated.

In the aisles of the J. C. Penney Company Department store there is a true exposition of merchandise possessing a quality of style, workmanship and materials that is reliable and serviceable.

Behind the counters of the J. C. Penney Company Store is found a type of Store Service that is pre-eminent in salesmanship. Justice and Equality is a fact and not a promise. It is not uncommon to hear people speak approvingly of their experience here.

Thus it is not difficult to understand the underlying impetus that has caused the J. C. Penney Company to grow and expand until today it is the largest chain department store organization in the World.

Continued expansion never will be made impossible for the reason that our stores will have ceased to be an inspiration to our customers. We shall ever strive to make them inviting and better stores.

And your patronage will be appreciated and merited.

Truth In Advertising

The J. C. Penney Company believes heartily in the work of the National Vigilance Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World and the Better-Business Bureaus which are actively furthering Truth in advertising throughout the United States. It is contributing financially to the movement and giving the fullest support in its own advertising and merchandising.

When the corner stone for its business was laid in 1902, the governing force was the principle of the Golden Rule. To this ideal, the J. C. Penney Company has stood steadfastly for twenty-one years—anti-dating by a few months, inception of the Truth-in-Advertising movement.

It believes that business possesses a Soul. If it does, then it has a Conscience and if it has a Conscience, it must possess MORAL OBLIGATION. As a servant of the public, the J. C. Penney Company holds itself obligated to perform its duties so that everybody coming in contact with it will be benefited.

The company, in its advertising, does not exaggerate nor resort to sensational methods. A plain, straight-forward statement of a fact is the basis of its appeal to the public. It does not use such statements as "worth," "reduced from," "originally priced," etc., but names its selling price—and that price is for all; the same today, tomorrow, so long as the article advertised can be bought from the maker at the cost upon which the price was based.

"When you see it advertised in a J. C. Penney Company advertisement, its value is real."

Upon this statement you can depend absolutely.

FROSH HOLD VARSITY, 22 TO 3 IN SATURDAY GAME

Lawrence Yearlings Give Seasoned Vets Close Rub In Battle

First String Considerably Weakened By Absence Of Kotal, Grignon, Berry And Boetcher

APPLETON HUMBLING MANITOWOC HIGHS. 30-0 ON GRIDIRON

Coch Wilson's New Eleven Shuts Out Heavier Squad In Opening Contest

Coach Bill Smith's freshman squad made an excellent showing against the Lawrence first string Saturday holding back charges to a score of 22 to 3 in a regular contest. The regulars can be credited with but one earned touchdown, two being due to miscues on the part of the Frosh. The regulars were considerably weakened by the absence of Kotal, Grignon, Boetcher and Berry, but even with this admitted disadvantage should have made a better showing against the inexperienced freshmen. The varsity backfield appeared to be entirely lacking force in their charges through the Frosh line, and the line failed to open holes for their mates in the backfield.

Eight passes were completed in fine style by the newcomers, several of these being for more than 25 yards. Mills at quarter, although he made a few poor guesses, handled the yearlings in fine shape. Nobles and Nason, Wisconsin High School products, looked like veterans in their positions as half back for the Frosh. The entire front wall gave a good account of itself, particularly Stark, who last year starred on the Appleton High school first string. He broke up play after play at his side of the line. Monstead, at center, put up an excellent game, breaking in for frequent tackles.

Coch Denny used as many men as possible in an effort to discover smooth-working combinations, and straight football was used throughout.

FIRST QUARTER
Stoll kicked to the Freshmen and Heideman returned to his own five yard line, from where the Freshmen punted after two plays had failed to gain. Zussman returned to the 25 yard line. Currie and Kinney advanced the ball to the 10 yard line, and on the next play Currie ran around left and for the first touchdown. Goan was hurt and replaced by Feind. Stoll kicked goal.

The Frosh received the next kick-off on their own five yard line, and a bad pass from center rolled behind the goal where it was recovered by Stoll for a touchdown. Stoll's kick for goal failed. Remington went in for Olson at center.

The yearlings received on their own ten yard line, and on the 15 yard line when the newcomers were held for downs. Kinney and Currie advanced to the five yard line where the Frosh regained it on a fumble. Currie caught a Freshman punt and returned it to the 15 yard line. The quarter ended there.

SECOND QUARTER
Zussman placed the ball in position for a kick after completing a pass for eight yards, and Stoll placed kicked from the ten yard line. Holdridge replaced Packard.

Kinney returned the Frosh kick-off five yards to the Regular's 25 yard line, and the varsity was held and punted to the 30 yard line. Two plays combined with a penalty gave the Freshmen their first down. A pass failed, but the next gained 15 yards. The Regulars were again penalized 15 yards for interfering with the catch. First down for the Freshmen on the Regular's 17 yard line. An attempted drop kick was blocked, but Nason recovered and returned to his 15 yard line. The Regulars held the Frosh for downs and took the ball on their own ten yard line. Feind hit the Frosh left tackle for 15 yards, but a bad pass on the next play lost 20 yards for the Regulars. Stoll kicked to Mills who was downed where he stood on the 50 yard line. Nason gained 15 yards on a pass after one had failed, and Nason punted to the Regulars. The half ended with the ball in the possession of the Regulars in the center of the field.

THIRD QUARTER
Heideman received Stoll's kick-off and returned it to the Freshman 20 yard line, and the Frosh were forced to punt. Currie received the punt and returned to his own 45 yard line. Within their own 15 yard zone, the Freshmen halted several rushes, and an exchange of punts resulted in a slight advantage for the Regulars, who kept the ball in Frosh territory most of the time. The Freshmen held their opponents for downs and received the ball on their own 20 yard line at the end of the quarter.

FOURTH QUARTER
Heideman started the last quarter with a 20 yard pass, and the next attempt to get through the line failed. LaRoux recovered a blocked punt on the Freshman 45 yard line, and the Regulars were held for no gain. Stoll punted off-side to the Freshman 20 yard line, and after a further exchange of punts, the Freshmen took the ball on their 40 yard line. A bad pass, a fumble and an intercepted pass by Kinney who raced twenty yards to the Freshman goal gave the Regulars another touchdown, but the kick for goal failed.

Noble returned Stoll's kick-off ten yards to his 40 yard line, and Mills gained 15 yards on a pass. After a poor pass, the next one gained ten yards. The Regulars were penalized 15 yards for off-side, and Nason received the next pass on the Varsity 15 yard line. When two more passes had failed, Nason dropped back for a kick from the 15 yard line, which was good and brought the score 22 to 3.

The game ended with the Frosh in possession of the ball on their 40 yard line, after Zussman had recovered his fumble of the Freshman

Doc Delmore Poles Homerun In Sixth With Two Men On Stations

Sheboygan-Menasha-Neenah defeated Sheboygan, 4 to 2, and won the Wisconsin State League pennant for this year in the second game of the championship series played at the local ball park on Sunday.

Doc Delmore's home run in the sixth sent in two men ahead of him, resulting in enough scores to take the game. Braun gave Delmore the same kind of a ball that he sent over the fence at Menasha a week ago. In the seventh inning Menasha put another run over for good measure Leopold reaching first on a hit, taking third on Zelenske's single and scoring on Kores' error at second. Braun caught Zelenske off first and when Barzen threw to Kores, the latter let the ball bounce off his glove. Zelenske was safe and Leopold scored.

Menasha had ten hits while Sheboygan only got three off. Rush, The Chairmakers scored one in the third and one in the fourth.

The attendance beat that of the record at Menasha last week by 300, the paid admissions being 3,909. The scores:

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Columbia University has always had plenty of money. But Columbia has not always had much of a football team. And so they applied a bit of their superfluous wealth toward the strengthening of their position upon the gridiron, obtaining Haughton as coach at the highest salary ever paid to a football mentor, said to be in the neighborhood of $20,000 a season. But whether Haughton, who delivered at Harvard, can deliver at Columbia, is a question. Still, he can afford an experiment at the risk of his reputation to the tune of $20,000 a year.

Quarterback Is Football's General; Successful Leader Respects Law Of Averages and Sound Play

STRATEGY MAP-OFFENSE. THE TEAMS ATTACKING GOAL "B." MAKE A CAREFUL STUDY OF THE TACTICS TO BE FOLLOWED IN.

BY ROBERT C. ZUPPKE
Football Coach, University of Illinois, Author of "Football Technique and Tactics"

The generalship employed in a football game should be a result of the history of played games, the experience and study of the coaches, and the mastery of the sequence of plays. The experience of coaches, the style of offense and defense, the relation one play bears to another, and the formations which contain the various plays, make up the system previous to each game. The system determines the tactics and strategy to be employed.

The average spectator at a game is of the opinion that the quarterback does all of the thinking for the team as far as the selection of plays on the field is concerned. Superficially speaking, he does; he, with the captain, guides the offense. The spectator forgets, however, that the quarterback in turn is guided by the system and that all of the men plus the coaches are part of that system. The system develops football brains, controls the football thought of the quarterback, and furnishes him the data on which to base his generalship.

The coaches must compel the quarterback to respect the law of averages and teach him discrimination between sound football and the "go as you please" hit or miss kind. They should assist him in selecting the plays not by merely telling him what and when to choose, but for fortifying him with a group of formations and a cycle of plays which, because they are related, implant themselves firmly in his memory.

The kind of play that is taught, the way it is taught, the time the play is drilled, the part of the field it is practiced on, the backfield man which the play emphasizes, and the number of plays, are all cogs in the wheel that operates the football machine.

This system should not be so rigid in its demands that the general cannot extricate it from a groove, but should be flexible enough to be varied from year to year because of the varying ability of the players.

The quarter and the captain must be so much a part of the system that they understand the true meaning of every play and the part each man of the team is to play. They must know the way and therefore of every move which the coaches make, such as using play "A" in preference to using play "B," and why back No. 2 is used so much more than No. 3 or No. 4, and why one should punt on the third down nearly all of the time against certain opponents, and why one should punt half of the time on the second down and the other half on the fourth against other opponents.

The quarterback should study a strategic map, such as is reproduced, until it is second nature with him to remember the kinds of tactics to adopt in different parts of the field. In our map the offensive team is attacking goal B.

PACKERS' CONTEST WITH BROWNS ENDS IN SCORELESS TIE

Huge Crowd Sees Exciting Grid Battle Of Professionals At Green Bay

Green Bay—The Green Bay Packers and St. Louis Browns battled to a 0 to 0 tie here on Sunday before a huge crowd. It was an exciting game. The visitors presented a stone wall defense when in the shadow of the goal posts.

The Packers' bootmish failed in five attempts at field goals. St. Louis showed but little on the attack, making but three first downs during the encounter. Only once during the game were the Browns inside the Packers' thirty-five yard line. Casey's remarkable kicking featured for St. Louis.

His punts averaged sixty yards. The Packers' aerial attack was again much evidenced, with Mathys doing some splendid receiving. Wilder, former Nebraska star, playing guard for St. Louis, suffered a badly fractured arm.

BEARS WIN RACINE GRID CONTEST, 3-0

Sternemann's Place Kick In Second Quarter Responsible For Victory

Racine—The Bears, one of Chicago's strong entries in the National Professional Football league, won their first game here on Sunday when Dutch Sternemann's educated toe boot a place kick in the second quarter of the 3 to 0 game played with the Horlick Racine Legion eleven here Sunday afternoon before a crowd of nearly 5,000. The lone score came when the Bears were checked off the Legion ten yard line and Sternemann stepped back to the twenty-five yard line to kick.

GIANTS AND YANKS HAVE MANY SERIES VETERANS ON CLUBS

All But Two Regulars Of Both Teams Played In Flag Races

New York—Experience, if it has any value to a ball club, should be all in favor of the New York Yankees when they meet the Giants in the world's series.

With the exception of Jimmy O'Connell and Jack Bentley, two Giant youngsters, all the regulars of both teams have had previous experience in one series and practically all of them have been through two championship battles.

The Yankees, however, are loaded down with veterans who went through world's series conflicts before they joined the New York club.

Counting this coming series as their third experience with the Yanks, Walter Schanz, Joe Bush, Everett Schang and Babe Ruth have taken part in six championship series.

Schanz and Bush were playing with the Athletics in 1913 and 1914, and they were traded to the Red Sox in time to take part in the series of 1915. Scott and Ruth played with the Red Sox in 1915, 1916 and 1918 before they were traded to the Yankees.

Carl Mays and Mike McNally got in on the series in 1915 and 1916 with the Red Sox, and Sam Jones made his first start in the big show in 1913 with the Boston club.

Elmer Smith, utility outfielder for the Yanks, made his first appearance in the classic in 1920 with the Cleveland Indians.

Against this array of experienced talent the Giants have only three players who had a shot at the big money before 1921.

Dave Bancroft was with the Phillies when they won the pennant in 1915. Casey Stengel was with the Brooklyn champions in 1916, and Heinie Groh played with the Cincinnati Reds in the 1917 series.

LAST YEAR'S SERIES SET ONE NEW RECORD

New York—Last year's world's series between the Giants and the Yanks was one of the most drab and ordinary of all that have been played.

When forty-nine various kinds of playing records were made or equaled in the 1921 series only one new record was made last fall and five minor marks were equaled.

The two teams made a new record when they drew $125,147 to one game. Ernie Ward tied a record by hitting two homers in one game.

Bill Cunningham tied a record by making two assists from the outfield in one game.

The Giants tied a record by not losing one game and the Yanks tied, another by not winning a game.

They both tied a record by engaging in one "no decision" game.

SATURDAY RESULTS SURPRISE COLLEGE FOOTBALL COACHES

Two New Mentors See Squads Defeated. Others Held To Small Scores

By Associated Press
New York—A review of Saturday's college football games brings the observation that the way of the incoming head coach is not edged with roses.

Last week end found two recently appointed coaches witnessing defeats of their teams: a third looking on while a small college held his eleven to a scoreless tie, and several others observing their charges outplayed at times by foes who had been thought to possess little strength.

The two whose eleven met defeat are Carlow Young, who succeeded John Hilsman at Pennsylvania and Jack Maloney, who supplanted Eacine as head coach at Georgetown. Young's eleven lost 3 to 0 to Maryland, and Maloney's team was defeated, 14 to 3 by the Quinceo Marines.

The coach whose team was played to a scoreless tie is Percy Haughton, former Harvard instructor, now head coach at Columbia. Amherst made the trouble for Haughton's team.

Recently appointed coaches whose teams were at times outplayed by small college opponents are Jess Javley of Dartmouth, whose eleven was held scoreless for three periods by the University of Maine; John McEwan, West Point, whose team was held scoreless for two periods by Florida; W. H. Spaulding, Minnesota, whose team barely noded out Ames college, 20 to 17, and Jack Ryan, Wisconsin, whose team was held to a 7 to 3 victory by Coe college.

QUINN-DEVINE BOUT WILL BE CHANCE TO SEE CLASSY BATTLE

Scottish Miner And "Gunner" Doped As Coming Stars Of Midwest

Appleton fight fans have never witnessed a battle in which the combaters have been more evenly matched than the "Gunner" Joe Quinn of St. Paul and the "Scottish Miner" James Devine, who today will have anything on Thursday night. A report from Chicago where Devine is training states that "he is the classiest boy we have seen here in some time. He is a splendid boxer, knows how to fight, and can hit as hard as the best of them. There are few middleweights in the west today who have anything on him." Chicago has had some first rate fighters, and a report of this kind coming from there seems to indicate that Appleton fans may hope to see a classy exhibition when the "Gunner" and Devine mix. It will make a smart boxer to outfight Quinn, but Devine's backers seem to think they have the man who can do it. They base their claim chiefly on Devine's more formidable record, yet Quinn has never been knocked down in his more than sixty battles, and has never lost a decision. Jack Reddick, the champion of Canada, can testify that Quinn packs a wallop, for when he went down the third time in the seventh round of their bout, he forgot to get up.

Some fans are betting that the "Gunner" will not last the scheduled ten rounds with the Scottish miner, but these bets found ready takers and the majority of enthusiasts stick to Quinn as their favorite.

Dick Boya's absence from the card will hardly be noticed. There are plenty of good boys in this part of the country, reports indicate, who are willing to step in and meet Church. A selection has not yet been made.

COST OF BRIDGES WILL BE LESS THAN FIRST ESTIMATES

Mistake In Preliminary Survey At Cherry-st Results In Saving

Appleton's bridge program probably will cost the city a considerable sum less than was anticipated at the time of the preliminary bridge contracts, it has been admitted by Alderman H. R. Beske, chairman of the city council's committee on streets and bridges.

The saving in the cost of construction of the Cherry-st viaduct, which was awarded to the Wausau Iron works, has not been definitely determined, Mr. Beske says, but in the estimation of W. H. Klyve, supervising engineer of Harrington, Howard and Ash, the amount saved will be between $10,000 and $15,000.

The bid submitted by the Wausau Iron works, as those of other contracting bidders, was on a quantity basis, the concrete construction being computed according to the cubic yard, and the steel construction according to weight. On the basis of these quotations and the plans and specifications, the Wausau Iron Works' bid, which was tabulated as estimated by O. F. Weissberger, former city engineer, at $215,551, less than the original plans called for the saving of approximately $15,000 may bring the cost of this structure down to approximately $204,000.

LOSE AT LAKE-EST

Whatever is saved in the decreased length of the Cherry-st. structure, however, may be partly counterbalanced by a loss in the cost of the Lake-est bridge, according to Alderman Beske. This is caused by the fact that the rock bottom of the Fox river serving as basis for the pier footing of the bridge is considerably deeper than was first expected. This will necessitate the pouring of more concrete than was previously estimated. Just what the extra cost to the city will mean is not yet certain.

Because the greater depth made it necessary for the C. E. Meyer & Sons company, contractors, to build a huge coffer dam in the middle of the river, which was not necessary at the Cherry-st bridge, it is evident that the contractors also will sustain a loss. The construction of this bridge was let to the Oshkosh contractors April 18 at figures which tabulated at $56,847 for the whole.

Had the city council awarded the bridge contracts two months earlier at the first opening of contractors' proposals, the city would have saved $9,898, not considering an extra amount that was appropriated for extra pier construction. The original low bids were $55,522 on the Lake-est bridge and $207,767 on the Cherry-st bridge. The combined estimated cost was $255,095, as compared with 275,583, the combined bids on which contracts were awarded after the special referendum election on bridges.

The increased cost was partly due to an advance in the cost of steel. Another extra cost was the expense that the city council undertook in replacing two piers for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway bridge which the Cherry-st viaduct will straddle. This happens to be the controlling point from which both ends of the bridge are projected. The railway company objected to the location, and city officials after a conference with road officials in Milwaukee last winter agreed to iron out the difference by paying for the cost of the railroad's piers. This cost last spring was estimated at $6,200 and was included in the $215,551 contract price on the bridge.

The present cost difference confronting the city, which in the case of the Cherry-st bridge is an asset and in the case of the Lake-est bridge a liability, is not due to a faulty estimate, nor to a mistake in the bridge plans, but to the fact that such estimates and plans were based upon a preliminary survey which was not perfectly accurate.

The discrepancy could have been avoided, Mr. Beske says, had the city council authorized the firm of Harrington, Howard and Ash, of Kansas City and New York, to make a final and more comprehensive survey of the river and embankment profiles. But at that time the council was feeling as it was at the time of the preliminary survey undertaken by O. F. Weissberger, at that time city engineer.

MISTAKE HELPS CITY

A difference of a number of feet in the profile of the south bank of the Fox river, described as a concern but being in reality a concern turned out to be an advantage for the city, as the difference shortened the length of the bridge and decreased the quantity of work.

In the case of the mistaken depth of the rock bottom of the river at the Lake-est bridge, this may have been caused by striking loose rock or bowlders, an occurrence that might be possible even with the use of elaborate drills, it is said.

The plans and specifications prepared by the engineers were so drawn that they would admit of a change during the course of construction. When city officials were informed of the chances that would be necessary they authorized them, and this action was ratified by the common council in the session of Sept. 5. Those votes in opposition to ratification were Alderman L. O. Hansen of the First ward and Jerry Callahan of the Fourth ward.

By that action they endorsed the reduction in the length of span 9 in the south end of the bridge to about 40 feet instead of 35 feet and other resulting alterations. A change in the grade on the north end of the bridge was necessary, and this was changed from 2.23 per cent to 3.10 per cent.

15-lb Cabbage Heads Brought From Michigan

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Brill have returned from a 700-mile automobile trip through northern Wisconsin and Michigan. They went as far as Marquette, Mich., and spent some time with William Vaughn, formerly of Appleton, who is at the head of the public schools at Channing, Mich.

Mr. Vaughn has lately invested in a farm close to Channing on which he makes his home, and as evidence of his ability at growing vegetables Mr. Brill brought home several heads of cabbage each of which weighs more than 15 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Brill returned home by way of Crystal Falls, Florence and Laona and found the roads in excellent condition. They visited Henry Ford's wood working industries at Iron Mountain. Mr. Ford is constantly expanding them.

HUNTING SPOILED BY DENSE SMOKE

Forest And Swamp Fires Made It Impossible For Hunters To See Game

Partridge season was closed by one of the smokeiest days hunters have encountered for several years. This condition was due to swamp fires in the northern part of the country. Appleton people who attempted to shoot game near Black Creek Sunday stated that it was impossible to bag anything before 10 o'clock, when the atmosphere began to clear somewhat. Because of the density of the smoke road accidents were frequent.

A Chevrolet car belonging to John DeDecker, 641 Locust-st. had its radiator, left front fender and headlight damaged because the driver of the car in the lead failed to give warning that he had stopped. A man had been sent out to flag the cars in the rear, but before he was able to do so the DeDecker car had collided with it. So dense was the smoke that accidents were almost unavoidable.

Hunters were keenly disappointed, as this was the only Sunday in the five days open season for partridges and consequently the only Sunday many workmen had to visit their favorite territory.

NATIONAL PARKS GAIN IN POPULARITY DURING 1923

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Nearly a million and a half persons visited the country's national parks and monuments during the 1923 season.

The interior department announced Saturday that this was an increase of more than 200,000 over the official count for last year.

Rocky Mountain park Col. headed the list with 215,000 visitors. While Yellowstone park second with 138,352 showed an increase of 40,000.

PREPARE FOR WINTER NOW

Don't let your vegetables go to waste. They may all be saved by the drying process. Don't let your fruit decay in the orchard. By evaporation its food value may be so locked up that you can release it to serve your purpose any day in the year.

You need not depend on the sun, shine, need not expose materials to the rain. You can make for yourself a simple apparatus that will do the drying in your kitchen.

All the practical knowledge there is on the subject of drying is contained in a 60-page booklet issued by the Department of Agriculture. This is a free Government publication and our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage on a free copy of "Home Drying."

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. F. M. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit, 15c and 30c.

KOFFARNUS HURT WHEN SPEEDING CAR GOES THROUGH FENCE

Young Man Is In Oshkosh Hospital With Fractured Jaw And Nose

Louis Koffarnus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Koffarnus, 880 Morrison-st., is at an Oshkosh hospital suffering from severe injuries to his head as a result of an automobile accident at the Chicago and Northwestern railroad crossing a short distance south and west of the northern hospital for the insane. John Yost, of Oshkosh, who was with Koffarnus was also injured but less severely.

The two men were driving a small sport model automobile with Koffarnus at the wheel. They were driving west on the first cross road south of the hospital and approached the railroad crossing at a fairly good rate of speed. When the car struck the crossing it turned over and landed on the tracks of the Soo Line which run parallel with the Northwestern road at this point.

The automobile broke through the fence and the driver was pinned partly under the car. A man who lived in the vicinity helped the men out and hauled a passing car which took the injured men to the Oshkosh hospital. Koffarnus died freely from the mouth and nose. An X-ray examination showed that the upper jaw bone and none in the nose were broken. He will recover, however. The automobile was practically a total wreck.

RED CROSS BOARD IS ASKED TO MEET

The board of directors of Outagamie-co chapter of the American Red Cross will have a meeting at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon to determine what course will be taken in regard to continuing of Red Cross activities in this country. The meeting of the board is a result of a conference of representatives called by Miss Eleanor F. Myers of central division, Red Cross, on Friday at which only the Appleton representatives were present.

When the Appleton Red Cross office was closed, many people not familiar with the nature of the charter granted here during the war considered that there was no longer a Red Cross organization in the country. If the charter is to remain in the country, a roll call will be held in Appleton and all the branches.

Gallery practice will be held in the armory during the winter to prepare men for the shooting next year. Several members of the company missed qualifications by very narrow margins this year.

CHIMNEY SPARKS START TWO FIRES

Two fires which had started from identical sources occupied the attention of the Appleton fire department Saturday. They were roof fires caused by sparks escaping from the chimneys.

The first fire occurred at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the Delta Sigma Tau fraternity house at 765 Kimball-st. When the firemen arrived Lawrence college students were on the roof and had succeeded in extinguishing the fire.

The roof of the Miss Dina Geenen home at the corner Draw and North-sts caught fire at about 6 o'clock Saturday evening. The fire burned only a small hole in the roof but three gallons of chemicals were necessary to extinguish the blaze.

Politicians In Y.M.C.A. Ready For Hot Fight

The opening guns in the 1923 political campaign at the Y. M. C. A. boys' department were fired Friday evening at the annual "open house," present this year, while not as long, will be a much hotter fight than the one staged last October.

The Reliable party sprung a complete surprise by selecting as their candidate Homer Williams, a high school sophomore, Williams represented the Newsies club on the boys' division council last year and showed qualities of leadership that make him a strong contender.

The decision of the Reliabilities to run Williams instead of a member of their own club, the Employed boys, was made because it is believed that a younger boy will be more truly representative of the boys' membership than a candidate of either of the senior organizations.

A large majority of the boy members are of grade school age or slightly older and it is expected will support more wholeheartedly the administration of one of their own members. The Reliabilities point with pride to their record of last year and base their claims for reelection upon it and a program which calls for a club for every boy, interclub boxing and wrestling contests, and a boys' division newspaper.

Everybody's party, composed of H. Y. boys, is backing the vice president of their club, Carl Engler. Their platform calls for a radio set, a new motion picture machine, and a tennis court for boys only.

Miss Irene Giepp is spending a several days' vacation with her parents at Epand.

CAR GOES INTO DITCH BUT OCCUPANTS UNHURT

While Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Ferron were returning to Appleton from an automobile trip Sunday they witnessed a Ford touring car containing two Marion couples go over an 8-foot embankment a short distance west of the junction of the Medina and Green-villes. The car turned over on its side and Mr. and Mrs. Ferron reached it just as one of the young men crawled out from beneath it. Both girls were slightly bruised, but the boys escaped injury. The right front wheel and the top of the automobile were damaged.

Dr. J. A. Holmes and O. P. Schlafer left for Stevens Point Monday morning, where the former addressed the Rotary club at its luncheon, and where the latter attended a hardware fire insurance company meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Schwandt and children of Oshkosh spent Sunday with Appleton friends.

PARTRIDGE HUNTER INJURED IN FALL

Dymon Bachman was painfully injured while hunting in the woods for partridges near Lakewood Sunday with L. E. Williams and Hans Wilke. The Appleton men were about to bag their first game when Bachman jumped over a log and fell on a sharp stick. The stick penetrated his clothing and entered quite deeply into the flesh. As there was no surgeon in the vicinity he was driven home to Appleton, a distance of about 125 miles. His condition is not serious.

CTS ASSURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS SCHOOL

"There Can Be No Perfection in Cooking" Without A Good Range Says Miss Schumacher

And I have never used a more satisfactory one, than a RELIABLE ANGLIRON GAS RANGE. In fact, it does everything and everything equally well, so I always request the installation of A RELIABLE GAS RANGE for all of my Cooking Institutes."

Will Your Gas Range Do This?

LET'S Pretend it's Thanksgiving Day. The family is going to the matinee, and friends are coming for six o'clock dinner. It's the maid's day off. What will you do? "Why—there's only one answer," you say, "stay home and cook the dinner." And your answer is quite correct, unless—you own a Reliable ~~Angliron~~ Gas Range equipped with the

LORAIN OVEN HEAT REGULATOR

You see, women who own Lorain-equipped Gas Ranges can cook a Whole Meal—soup, vegetables, meat and dessert—in the oven at one time. While the meal is cooking they can go to the matinee, football game, visiting, or do other work about the house for three, four or five hours.

At the end of the pre-determined time the entire dinner will be found deliciously done and ready to serve—and all cooked without spending one minute in the kitchen.

Now, will your gas range do that? Or will it do any of these things? Does it enable you to do all your canning in the oven by the sterilization process—the easiest, surest, quickest and best way to can.

And, are you absolutely certain every time you place a pie, a cake, cookies, biscuits or bread in the oven that they'll come out "just right" every time?

If you can't do these things with your gas range you should be willing to make most any sacrifice to buy one equipped with the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator, which makes all these things possible.

We'll be glad to explain and demonstrate the remarkable advantages of the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator, the device that measures and automatically controls the heat of the oven. Come to our store and learn for yourself.

Reliable ~~Angliron~~ Gas Ranges are Lorain-equipped

The main front, top, and base are unbreakable because made of "angle iron" (drawn and tempered steel). All enameled sheet metal parts are of enameled iron. Reliable Angliron ranges are built to American Gas Association specifications. You will like their modern features, and smooth, easily cleaned surface.
